CONTEXT

Migration and social cohesion issues are a priority for the Council of Europe which defines social cohesion as "the capacity of a society to ensure the welfare of all its members, to minimize disparities and avoid polarisation ". The influence of immigration on social cohesion is one of the major issues of the future of Europe and one of the priorities of the European Union.

However, the migrant unemployment rate is of about 21% against 10% for nationals of Member States. Such a situation falls within the particular context of the economic crisis and a rise of populism and xenophobia in a growing number of EU countries, targeted against the migrant public. Many are thus exposed to exclusion in employment, housing, health and education. They have to face numerous barriers that prevent them from integrating into the host societies.

The project brings together 6 partners from 4 countries bordering the Mediterranean (Spain, France, Greece, Italy) with different approaches and experiences of migration, all engaged in the training and the inclusion of non-EU migrant populations, mainly those coming from North African countries.

STAKES

DIME aims to improve the education and training offer for migrants in order to favour their integration and promote social cohesion. The project designers therefore propose to:

- Develop a referential of formal and non-formal skills necessary for the inclusion of migrant people
- Elaborate and implement new interactive learning modules, pedagogical methods and training tools based on the learning processes, the transversality, a set of processes that will facilitate the socio-cultural and economic integration.

OBJECTIVES

These two main issues are declined in different objectives and steps:

- To analyse, compare, evaluate different training methodologies in partner countries in order to identify the most effective settings
- To consider cultural, linguistic, social and professional barriers in the training provided
- To build contents, methods and educational tools that facilitate a successful integration
- To verify its relevance amongst the targeted public as part of an experiment
- To ensure their transfer and dissemination in the European area, to promote them to the countries of origin.

ACTIVITIES AND PRODUCTIONS

The main activities of the DIME project will take place between September 2015 and August 2018. They will include:

- An analysis of reception and inclusion policies for migrants
- An analysis of existing training practices and the identification of good practices
- The formalising of the framework of formal and non-formal competences
- The building of training modules
- The testing of these modules with migrants
- The experimentation feedback and formalising of training modules
- The dissemination of results via a dedicated website.

TARGET GROUPS

The DIME project is addressed to:

- To the migrant public : Youth and adults (+ 18 years old), from outside the EU (non-EU), legally residing in the territory regardless of their status (refugee, economic migrant) since less than 2 years
- To the reception and training organisations in charge of this public
- To external institutions and partners including company managers
- For those interested.
